Rising Stars Challenge

2022

We care for innovation and out-of-the-box ideas.

In line with Provital's philosophy for caring for people and their talent, we launched this cosmetic formulation competition exclusively aimed at students from all around the world who are interested in the personal care sector and passionate about formulation and the latest trends in the cosmetics market.

Our Rising Stars Challenge is all about creativity, knowledge and originality applied to the cosmetics sector in order to take care for people and the planet.

Because taking care is taking action.

MEET OUR INTERNATIONAL JURY

Laure Dupin, MSc

Manager of the Cosmetic Applications Department at Provital, Laure got her Master's degree in chemistry applied to cosmetics formulation. With over 10 years of experience working for manufacturers of both raw materials and cosmetic finished products, she has a broad experience creating all kind of colour make-up cosmetics and personal care products.

Madame Louisette Bourdin

Expert in cosmetic formulation, founder and CEO of ABC Texture, and independent French research, development and industrial manufacturer cosmetics subcontractor specialized in sun care, skin care and make-up. She is passionate about innovative textures and latest trends in the market.

Nowadays, he is fully devoted to Cosmetic Innovation as founder of the consulting company KBOOCK Inovação Cosmética, based in Brazil.

Dr Katarzyna Pytkowska

President of the jury

Medical Doctor specialized in skin biology with a Master of Science in cosmetic chemistry and technology. After over 15 years working parallelly in the cosmetic industry and universities, Dr Pytkowska has devoted her life to academia taking an important role in modern cosmetic chemistry education in Poland, acting as a professor for many specialists. She is actively involved in scientific communication through hundreds of publications and lectures.

SOME QUOTES OF OUR FIRST EDITION OF THE RISING STARS CHALLENGE:

Maria Iturralde
Student

For me, the Rising Stars Challenge has been not only gratifying but also challenging. I have never formulated haircare products before and this was an opportunity to learn more about this field and try to do my best... I hope next year many students can join this challenge.

I will keep this contest in my mind and heart because it was a challenge for me in order to show the way I work and getting more confident as a cosmetics formulator. I am grateful for this event that really will help to know the work of new students and professionals in this industry.

Eduardo Castro
Student

Amanda Hawtin
Student

I thoroughly enjoyed the experience of developing a new product in the Rising Stars competition... it was challenging and provided an opportunity to be creative – thank you Provital!

It has been impressive to see such a good level in the proposals received. The students have created innovative formulations answering to the latest trends around the world.

Madame Louisette Bourdin
Member of the jury

Being announced as 3rd overall in the Provital Rising Stars Challenge, while humbling, has given me the confidence to say 'I am a Cosmetic Chemist'. The challenge has offered me validation and suppresses the Imposter Syndrome feeling we can fall victim to...

Deborah Phillips
Student

Melissa Miller
Student

Being involved in Provital's so very gracious Rising Stars Challenge has shown me that "taking care is taking action" applies on so many different levels of our lives and results in the ripple effects of gratitude, inspiration, and motivation reaching further than any singular person can imagine.

It was a fantastic experience! A virtual meeting with young people from all over the world, sharing their ideas for fabulous cosmetics. Wonderful and inspiring!

MEET THE GLOBAL WINNERS

Maria Iturralde

I have studied a Chemistry degree in Universidad Jaume I in Castellón and a master of cosmetic industry in Universidad Politécnica de Valencia in Alcoy campus. Nowadays, I am working in Laboratorios Calduch in Castellón and trying to do my best everyday to become a good professional in cosmetics.

1

Juliette de Nas de Tourris

I am in my last year of chemical engineering studies in France at the School of Organic and Mineral Chemistry, ESCOM. This summer I did an internship as a formulator in the R&D laboratory of Thépenier Pharma & Cosmetics in Normandy. I tried to create a link between me and my product, since the active ingredient I got combines my two favorite places in the world. I am a creative person who has always made art a big part of her life. I am very attached to nature and what it offers us, and I spend most of my weeks caring for my vegetable garden, amazed by the gifts it gives me.

2

Deborah Phillips

Having worn many varied hats across multiple industries in my lifetime I began my studies in Cosmetic Formulation. After completing a few courses I knew I wanted to progress further and become a Cosmetic Chemist. The more I learnt however the more thirsty I became for every bit of knowledge I could get. It is said that you are never too old to learn and I thoroughly agree. I can see myself continuing to progress my education in this field for quite some time to come. I love the feeling of community within the personal care and formulation industry and am deeply grateful to the people I have met.

Amanda Hawtin

I currently work with my cousin in her beauty brand MEGAN POTTER. Twelve months ago, the company decided to move towards offering all certified organic skin care by 2023. To assist with this transition, I began formal studies with the Institute of Personal Care Science in Australia. Prior to my current position I worked as a casual academic in business. I love how cosmetic formulation brings together a perfect blend of science and creativity, and look forward to developing high performing certified organic skin care.

Eduardo Castro

I got my degree in Chemical Enginering in my homeland, Bolivia. Later I studied a Masters degree in Cosmetic Science in Universitat Politécnica de Valencia, Campus d'Alcoi, Spain. Currently I am an intern in R&D department of a cosmetics company in Alcoi. I do like cosmetics industry and I want to become a cosmetic formulator able to overcome the industry challenges for creating good products according to the consumers trends but also caring for the planet.

Jillian Ehrenberg

Owner of Petal + Hive in New York, and a student with the Institute of Personal Care Science in Australia. I specialize in plant-based skincare with an emphasis on anti-aging products.

Melissa Miller

I am grateful for the joy that being involved in the cosmetic and personal care sectors brings. I thrive on product development and could spend limitless hours researching new ingredients and manufacturing methods if left to my own devices. Having spent over 20 years in research and development in a different sector, I thoroughly enjoy developing innovative concepts from project briefs. When not working on my cosmetic chemistry studies, I can be found laying the groundwork for 95indies and Six Orchards, cheering on my children at their sporting events, or pottering around the garden.

Tamara Cetkovic

Listening to the needs of others and formulating solutions comes naturally to me. Channelling my B. Communications (Hons) degree, I cared for travellers for nearly 30 years as cabin crew for a national airline. I turned my attention and problem-solving abilities to formulating solutions for stubborn skincare issues that developed after the birth of my son. My love affair with cosmetic formulation was born and has become a consuming passion. I create balance with formulating by enjoying a coffee and a book in my garden and taking long walks in nature with my family.

Sylwia Kudyba

I love trying new restaurants and cafes, learning new languages, hiking, and traveling around the world with my friends and family. I studied my bachelor's degree in Chemistry of bioactive agents and cosmetics in the Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin. I am currently studying a postgraduate course in quality and safety of cosmetic products at the University of Lodz.
